EICC Code of Conduct Position Statement

PLX ascribes to and supports industry-wide semiconductor business and labor practices relevant to its operations.

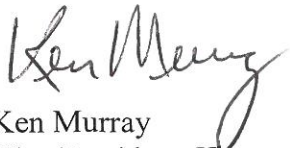

From these practices, we have determined that we are compliant to the objectives of the EICC (Electronics Industry Citizenship Coalition) code of conduct.

As a 100% fabless semiconductor company, with no direct manufacturing related processes or work force, PLX extends its authority to key suppliers, who also address the EICC code of conduct within their operations. We manage our supply chain in support of this code of conduct and do so through a key supplier assessment process to monitor compliancy.

PLX is unaware of a lack of compliance by our non-key suppliers but would begin corrective action if such non-compliance was discovered.

PLX Technology is committed to delivering software enriched silicon connectivity solutions of superior quality through technology leadership, operational excellence, and continual improvement. We believe that by supporting the EICC code of conduct objectives, we will be better able to serve our customers and the community.

Sincerely,
